Dear South East Adventurer

With most tourism businesses now beginning to reopen and welcome back visitors for the first time this year, this May half term is looking very exciting. There is a whole host of family friendly events for you to enjoy over this school holiday, whether you decide to head into one of the indoor attractions or make the most of the glorious spring surroundings.

Why not take advantage of this time with the family to book your first overnight break or weekend away. You do not have to travel miles for a new experience or to escape from the four walls. Dip your toe in the water and come for a staycation this half term in South East England.

Pre-booking is required at most tourist attractions, hotels, and campsites, so remember to plan ahead and check individual websites to avoid disappointment. Come along and enjoy different experiences, new tastes and spend time together, it's amazing what a daycation/staycation can do.
