Summer of Sound at Wakehurst

Summer of Sound | Kew

Dear South East Adventurer

Pause. Breathe. Listen.

Do you hear the steady drum of the woodpecker? Or the whispers of the forest?

This summer, Wakehurst, Kew's wild botanic garden in Sussex, will be brought alive by a symphony of sounds. Six striking large-scale installations situated across the landscape will delicately and playfully inspire a greater connection to nature. Journey through the wild gardens and find a new dimension to the term 'surround sound' as the natural noises of the gardens are amplified and explored by award-winning sound artists.

Summer of Sound runs until 12 September and is included in garden entry to Wakehurst.
